Showdown On Indochina War Near;
Cabinet Session Called By Churchill"United Action"
Decision May Be Made At London

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill hurriedly summoned his Cabinet into a special session today. Informed sources said the government would consider again whether to join in taking united action against Communists in Indochina should the Geneva peace talks fail.

British sources made it clear the problem of supporting any projected united action was but one aspect of several issues which the Cabinet would consider. The government leaders will undertake a full scale review of Britain's position in the Far East crisis as diplomatic and military events move toward a climax.

Up to now it has been the British Southeast Asian policy, as stated by Churchill in Parliament, that this country would undertake "no new commitments before results at Geneva are known."

Reds Improve Position

But the longer the Geneva talks go on without any conclusive result, the greater advantages accrue to the Communists, who already are improving their military position in Indochina. So now the question posed to the British is whether they should set a time limit to their "wait and see" policy.

The nation's air, sea and land military chiefs are expected to take part in tomorrow's Cabinet session, at which Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will give a first hand assessment of peace prospects. Eden flew to London yesterday and is scheduled to return to Geneva after the Cabinet meeting. He conferred today with Churchill and Marquess Salisbury, lord president of the council, at the prime minister's summer home at Chequers.

British Position Summed Up
One authoritative informant summed up the position of the British government at this time as follows:

It remains British policy to do everything possible to bring about a settlement at Geneva. Eden will go back to Geneva tomorrow with the full support of the government to continue the search for peace. But nevertheless the government must now take into account the possibility that the Geneva Conference might break down.

Five Tunisians
Slain In Battle

TUNIS, Tunisia, May 23 (AP)—French army and marine troops killed five Tunisian nationalists, wounded one, and lost two of their own men and three wounded in a two-day battle for a mountainous peak in a lake near Bizerte, it was announced today.

It was part of a renewed outbreak of violence, which saw 13 casualties, in this uneasy French protectorate. Nationalists attacked telephone lines and set up road blocks. They also killed a French forest ranger and wounded a customs officer.

The battle started yesterday, was halted for the night and renewed today before the French succeeded in capturing Djebel Ichkeul, a rocky peak in a lake.

French sources said the peak had been turned into a nationalist arsenal and "underground munitions dump" within the fortified zone of Bizerte and contained American arms, field glasses, staff maps, medical supplies and other booty.

Near the Algerian frontier on the Tebessa road, a small Tunisian rebel force halted a forest ranger, killed him with sub-machine gun fire and burned his car.

Russia Ignores Ruling

Limited Trade
With Red Bloc
Held Beneficial

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Foreign Aid Chief Harold E. Stassen said today the free world has benefited from its limited trade with Iron Curtain countries, and "we will take a firm position to keep the facts straight."

Referring directly in a radio-TV interview (CBS' Man of the Week) to a Senate speech last week by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and to his own answer to McCarthy, Stassen said "we do not intend to let the facts be twisted in any way."

Asked whether this indicated a general decision on the part of the Eisenhower administration to get tough with McCarthy, Stassen said he would speak only for his own department.

Clearance Unnecessary

There was no necessity for him to clear his own remarks last week with the White House, he said, adding "I took a few words to set the record straight."

McCarthy told the Senate last week that with the possibility of American intervention in Indochina, "It is criminal folly to give money to allies who... are shipping the sinews of military and economic strength to our enemies." He called on Congress to "bring honor out of dishonor" by halting allied trade with Red China.

Agreement Not Violated
Stassen fired back a statement that McCarthy's charges were "fantastic, unbelievable and untrue," adding:

"We are steadily building for peace under President Eisenhower's leadership, while Sen. McCarthy is frantically reaching for dirty, vulgar headlines after the sort of spectacle of his record in recent years."—an obvious reference to the McCarthy-Army hearings before a Senate subcommittee.

Stassen said the free world nations are living up to their agreement not to ship strategic goods behind the Iron Curtain and contended there has been a net gain to the free world from the trade in what he called "peaceful" goods.

'GWTW' Part Of Hollywood
Conspiracy, Russians Say

MOSCOW, May 23 (AP)—A Moscow newspaper calls the renowned motion picture "Gone with the Wind" a conspiracy carefully organized in Wall Street to arouse race-hate against American Negroes.

The official organ of the Soviet Ministry of Culture, Soviet Culture, labeled GWTW, now being revived in American theatres, anti-Negro propaganda, and declared:

"The propaganda of racism was very subtle. They paid special attention to this film in Wall Street. They spent a lot of time in its staging. The premiere of the film was in the center of the Ku Klux Klan country, Atlanta, Georgia. It was a particularly reactionary film about the Civil War in the United States."

The paper accused the American motion picture industry of waging a war against Negroes and other

About two weeks ago Bruce found a bird egg in the front yard. He took it inside and insisted that Miss Varga rig up an incubator. She did, putting a small electric light bulb inside a cookie tin.

Yesterday there was a chirp in the cookie tin. The baby sitter, now a bird watcher, thinks the little puff of brown feathers is a meadowlark. She feeds it mashed potatoes and egg yolk with an eyedropper every eight minutes.

U.S. And France
Survey Effects
Of Dien Bien Phu

SAIGON, Indochina, May 23 (AP)—The military situation in Indochina has been subjected to close and sober scrutiny by French and American military men this past week in an attempt to assess the full effect of the fall of Dien Bien Phu.

The examination was carried out by Gen. Paul Ely, chief of staff of the French army, on one side and American Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel on the other.

It is inexact to describe these studies as a post-mortem on Dien Bien Phu. It is more like a medical consultation to determine what can be done to cure a patient stricken by a localized disease. The French and Americans are inclined to view Indochina as very much alive even though in need of preventive medicine.

Gen. Ely, who brought a former Indochina commander, Gen. Raoul Salan, to Saigon with him, is returning to Paris to make his findings available to a French-American conference scheduled to open early in June.

Minority Groups In The United States In Other Films, Too

"Gollyvud acts instead of lynch law and together with lynch law," said Soviet Culture. "The bosses of the American cinema perseveringly propagandize the myth of the superiority of the Anglo-Saxons."

Soviet Culture claimed that so far this year alone Hollywood has put out 30 "racist films" which are intended to inflame race prejudices and set groups in America against one another.

Among such "racist" productions the Moscow paper listed the motion pictures "Hondo," which it said was aimed at the American Indian. The motion picture "The Well," issued in 1951, the paper termed "a shameful production" in which "Negroes were represented in the role of a defective people as though they themselves were responsible for their own sufferings."

Titans Battling For NYC Swap
Charges On TV

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Robert Young and William White, the opposing railroad titans who are battling for control of the New York Central, today argued their cases in a face-to-face television appearance.

White, president of the Central, and Young, the financier who controlled the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad until recently, each faced the pointed questions of newspapermen on the National Broadcasting Co.'s "Meet the Press" television program.

Young, a small, white-haired man with a mobile face, picked up the questions nimbly and fired back as good as he got.

Battle Climax Wednesday

White, who tops six feet, was more conservative. Keeping a smile on his face, he answered questions in a few words.

The proxy battle for control of the railroad comes to a climax Wednesday at the Central's annual stockholders meeting in Albany, unless a court decision on a stock question intervenes to delay it a month.

White and Young have been trading unkind remarks about each other for months, mostly in full-page newspaper advertisements.

Each claims certain victory when the stockholder ballots are counted. Before the program the two men met and shook hands with tight smiles. When photographers asked them to do it again, White refused, saying curtly: "This is serious. I'm not going to make a pink tea of this."

Young Wins Favored Spot

Young won a toss of a coin, which gave him the favored spot on the last half of the program.

Then the newspapermen, basing their questions for the most part on charges leveled by the other side, began quizzing White on his management policies.

One asked White if his management slate wins, would he give Young a place on the Board of Directors in view of Young's large holdings of Central stock.

"My heavens; I rather doubt that," said White.

Most of the ground had been pretty thoroughly covered previously during the long proxy battle, and no new charges or counter-charges came to light.

More Bids For Speech
Dates, McCarthy Says

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Republican National Headquarters has decided to make no dates for campaign speeches by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) this year, but the senator says he is getting bids to address both partisan and nonpartisan groups.

McCarthy told reporters that invitations were reaching his office at a rate of about 25 to 30 a day just before the start of hearings on his row with Army officials and that there has been "a pick-up" in the volume since then—perhaps a 25 per cent increase, he said.

Potential Indian
Mediator Meets
With East, West

GENEVA, May 23 (AP)—Uninvited but eager, a potential Indian mediator opened talks with East and West here today as participants in the Geneva conference neared a showdown on the eight-year-long conflict in Indochina.

Acting as special envoy for Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Krishna Menon, India's delegate to the United Nations, brought to the conference scene his government's suggestion that both the Korea and Indochina problems should be settled through some form of coalition or federation of opposing regimes.

With the first practical discussion of an Indochina settlement coming up, Western sources said this week would show whether the Communists mean business, or are merely stalling for new military gains in the field.

Alliance Steps Seen

Western political developments, meanwhile, indicated that definite steps toward a Southeast Asian defense alliance may be forthcoming.

The Indian diplomat saw French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden yesterday in Paris. He saw Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai today and also had appointments to confer with Russian Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov and United States Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith.

Menon's ideas were believed to be based on proposals advanced last week by Nehru in a foreign policy speech. Nehru urged a loose union of Communist and anti-Communist factions in Korea and Indochina, with full unification to be worked out gradually in each case.

India Would Police Truce

Under Nehru's plan, the rival regimes would exist side by side, but would join in a temporary common authority to cope with certain common problems. It would preface his in Indochina with a military armistice to halt the fighting.

India has also offered, under certain conditions, to help police an armistice in Indochina as she did in Korea.

The nine participants in the Indochina talks—the United States, Britain, France, Russia, Red China, Viet Nam, Cambodia, Laos, and the Communist-led Vietnam—were preparing to tackle the details of a military armistice in a closed session Monday.

Wilson En Route To Manila Talks

MANILA, Monday, May 24 (AP)—U.S. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson was en route to Manila today for two days of important talks on implementing the United States-Philippines mutual defense pact.

Concerned with the worsening situation in Southeast Asia, President Ramon Magsaysay's administration requested the meeting to learn U.S. views on the defense of these islands.

Magsaysay, a bitter foe of the Reds, spent Sunday on his yacht, completing the report he will give Wilson. During the last week he has met with his top military advisers.

A government spokesman said the Wilson-Magsaysay talks will seek to determine the best possible manner of strengthening United States-Philippine security in this critical area.

Red Demonstrators Arrested In Berlin

BERLIN, May 23 (AP)—More than 150 slogan-shouting Communist youths were arrested today when they demonstrated against the European army treaty in various West Berlin districts, police headquarters said. Most of the youths were soon released.

Hundreds of youths from East Berlin and East Germany had trickled into the U.S. and French sectors, gathered there in groups and attempted to win converts among Sunday strollers against the European Defense Community. Outraged West Berliners, however, used their fists in support of club-swinging police squads to disperse the young Communists.

No Extradition Of Leech Will

Prosecutor Declares
Evidence In Slaying
Not Legally Sufficient

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 23 (AP)—U.S. Chief Prosecutor Thomas L. Leland announced tonight the evidence in the slaying of three American officers in 1946 is "not in its present form legally sufficient" for a request to extradite former Army Capt. James M. Leech, of Lima, Ohio.

Leech was accused last Friday, by Leland's deputy, of the ax-murder of the three officers at Passau, Germany, in January 1946. Leech has denied the charges.

Three-Week Delay Likely

After plowing through the file of the eight-year-old murder case, Leland said in a statement:

"Although the evidence in this triple homicide is sufficient for the issuance of an arrest warrant, it is not in its present form legally sufficient for an extradition request."

"It appears that my office will therefore not be in a position to forward the case to the (U.S.) high commissioner for at least three weeks."

The charges against Leech were filed by Deputy U.S. Prosecutor William Canfield, of Hampden, Mass., after the Army had turned over the files of the case to U.S. High Commission legal authorities a few weeks ago.

Victims Are Identified

The three victims in the slaying were Maj. Everett S. Cofran, of Washington, D.C., Capt. Adrian L. Wessler, of New Rochelle, N.Y., and 1st Lt. Stanley M. Rosewater, of Omaha, Neb. Canfield contends that Leech, a deputy to Cofran, killed the three officers with an ax and then set their house afire with gasoline.

Chief Atty. Leland, of Boston, Mass., announced yesterday extradition of Leech would not be sought until he had made a "full study of the case." Leland was in Bremen prosecuting a bribery case when Canfield announced the charges here against Leech on Friday. Canfield is due to return to the United States in two weeks. It would be Leland's task to prosecute the triple-murder case if it ever comes to trial in an American occupation court.

Cops Halt Happy
Duo's Bell-Ringing

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Two men, about 12 hours too early for services and too high to hear the sermon, spent Sunday morning in jail after spending last night ringing church bells.

Twenty-five policemen by actual count were needed to stop the bell-ringing and restore peace and quiet to the neighborhood around Our Lady of Good Counsel church.

They were called as some 250 people gathered in the street to watch two men perched 75 feet atop the pinnacle of the church roof, ringing the bells for all they were worth.

Two policemen went after them, inch by inch along the narrow rooftop of the south Baltimore church, arguing and pleading with the pair to come down.

Just as the officers reached them, the two lost their footing, but the strong arms of the law were within grabbing distance then and the jubilant bell-ringers and the nervous policemen were helped to safety.

NAACP Launches Campaign
To End School Segregation

ATLANTA, May 23 (AP)—A local community level campaign for early elimination of public school segregation was launched by the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People here today.

Branches in all affected areas were instructed to petition local school boards for immediate ending of racial separation in schools, and to offer assistance in working out problems.

Representatives of chapters in 18 states having mandatory segregation laws were invited to the campaign to the local school boards at a two-day session here.

The new strategy was announced in an "Atlanta declaration" read at a morning news conference.

Possible opposition by some of the more outspoken foes of non-segregation was mentioned only briefly.

But at an afternoon meeting, the veteran NAACP leader, Executive Secretary Walter White called Govs. Herman Talmadge of Georgia and James F. Byrnes of South

Reds Will Permit
French To Help
Repair Airstrip

HANOI, Indochina, May 23 (AP)—French army headquarters announced today helicopters and small planes slowly evacuating French wounded from smashed Dien Bien Phu have brought out 115 more, for a total thus far of 291. More than 100 more were expected to reach Luang Prabang, Laos' royal capital, during the day. The French said they hope the Vietnam rebels soon will make further repairs to the pockmarked airstrip at the fallen fortress. This would permit landing of Dakota transports to speed up evacuation of the remaining 1,300 to 2,000 French Union casualties.

(Red China's radio at Peiping broadcast Sunday night that the Vietnam chief, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, had agreed to a May 17 offer of aid by the French to repair the airport. Giap called on the French to send in engineers to remove mines on the strip, allowing the larger Dakotas to land.)

French Plane Offer Refused

(The broadcast said the Giap turned down an offer of French planes to help evacuate wounded rebels, as part of the bargain, and that the Vietnam general also protested French bombing of Highway 41, a supply route. Giap asked for a cessation of bombings around Dien Bien Phu until all wounded are evacuated from the area.)

(Giap also rejected a French proposal for a mixed commission to decide what traffic should move on Highway 41.)

(The original French offer was broadcast to the rebels over the French radio last Monday night. Giap's reply said the total wounded to be released was 858—and listed Vietnamese, French North African soldiers and numerous nationalities in the French Foreign Legion among that number.)

French Continue Air Blows

French fighters and bombers continued today to heavily hammer fallen Dien Bien Phu.

B26's Corsairs, Privateers and fighters from land and carrier bases concentrated their assaults on provincial Route 41 over which the Vietnamese are continuing to shift heavy forces, artillery and antiaircraft batteries toward the western defense perimeter of the delta.

Move Afoot
To Dismiss
Hensel, Carr

Potter And Jackson
Would Not Object To Excusing Principals

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Sens. Potter (R-Mich.) and Jackson (D-Wash.) said today they would have no objection to eliminating two principals in the Army-McCarthy dispute, one on either side, but they believe Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Roy M. Cohn should testify fully in their own behalf.

Potter and Jackson said in separate interviews they do not believe Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel, an Army principal, or Francis P. Carr, McCarthy's chief of staff, has been linked closely with charges on which the Senate Investigations subcommittee will resume televised hearings tomorrow at 10 a.m. EDT.

"I would have no objection if Hensel and Carr were eliminated as principals," Potter said. "But I think McCarthy and Cohn would want to testify in their own behalf."

McCarthy Ready To Testify

McCarthy said over the weekend that "of course I will be available to testify at any time."

As for his aides, Cohn and Carr, McCarthy said: "I shall advise my staff to testify if they are called upon, but I will not order them to testify."

Jackson said the case against Hensel and Carr thus far has been "most inconclusive." He added, however, that the committee ought to wait until the Army's case is in and some decision is made on whether to admit monitored telephone calls into evidence before any final disposition is made of charges against them.

If nothing new develops, Jackson said he thinks Hensel and Carr might be dismissed then.

Secretary of the Army Stevens has charged McCarthy, Carr, and Cohn, who is McCarthy's chief counsel, with exerting undue pressure in attempts to get favored treatment in the Army for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former non-salaried consultant in McCarthy's Communist probe.

Stevens To Take Stand

McCarthy has replied with charges that Stevens and his aides tried to use Schine as a "hostage" in alleged efforts to sidetrack an investigation of Communists in the Army.

The Wisconsin senator accused Hensel of ramrodding the charges against him, but after President Eisenhower barred testimony about a Jan. 21 meeting of administration leaders at which the charges were discussed, McCarthy said he might have been mistaken.

Stevens is scheduled to take the stand at tomorrow's resumption of the hearings to swear that the Army had sole responsibility for making the charges against McCarthy, and that they were not inspired by other administration officials.

This may lay him open to cross examination by McCarthy on what he may have heard about the Jan. 21 meeting, at which Stevens himself was not present. Those attending included Atty. Gen. Brownell, Sherman Adams, White House chief of staff, and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Party Crasher
Attempts Suicide

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., May 23 (AP)—Police disclosed today that a party crasher was seized during a lawn party at the mansion of film executive Jack L. Warner Friday and later tried to hang himself in his jail cell after being arrested on suspicion of burglary.

Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson identified him as Kenneth Bowe, 27, a salesman of Manhattan Beach. Anderson said Bowe has been a fugitive from petty theft charges since 1950.

Anderson said Bowe boldly drove past guards at gates of the extensive Warner estate, giving the appearance of a guest. The police chief said he was found prowling through the 30-room house while other guests were at tennis courts and a swimming pool a quarter of a mile from the main residence. He was discovered by a maid who called guards.

McCarthy told reporters that invitations were reaching his office at a rate of about 25 to 30 a day just before the start of hearings on his row with Army officials and that there has been "a pick-up" in the volume since then—perhaps a 25 per cent increase, he said.

Potential Indian Mediator Meets With East, West

GENEVA, May 23 (AP)—Uninvited but eager, a potential Indian mediator opened talks with East and West here today as participants in the Geneva conference neared a showdown on the eight-year-long conflict in Indochina.

Acting as special envoy for Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Krishna Menon, India's delegate to the United Nations, brought to the conference scene his government's suggestion that both the Korea and Indochina problems should be settled through some form of coalition or federation of opposing regimes.

With the first practical discussion of an Indochina settlement coming up, Western sources said this week would show whether the Communists mean business, or are merely stalling for new military gains in the field.

Alliance Steps Seen

Western political developments, meanwhile, indicated that definite steps toward a Southeast Asian defense alliance may be forthcoming.

The Indian diplomat saw French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden yesterday in Paris. He saw Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai today and also had appointments to confer with Russian Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov and United States Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith.

Menon's ideas were believed to be based on proposals advanced last week by Nehru in a foreign policy speech. Nehru urged a loose union of Communist and anti-Communist factions in Korea and Indochina, with full unification to be worked out gradually in each case.

India Would Police Truce

Under Nehru's plan, the rival regimes would exist side by side, but would join in a temporary common authority to cope with certain common problems. It would preface his in Indochina with a military armistice to halt the fighting.

India has also offered, under certain conditions, to help police an armistice in Indochina as she did in Korea.

The nine participants in the Indochina talks—the United States, Britain, France, Russia, Red China, Viet Nam, Cambodia, Laos, and the Communist-led Vietnamese—were preparing to tackle the details of a military armistice in a closed session Monday.

Wilson En Route To Manila Talks

MANILA, Monday, May 24 (AP)—U.S. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson was en route to Manila today for two days of important talks on implementing the United States-Philippines mutual defense pact.

Concerned with the worsening situation in Southeast Asia, President Ramon Magsaysay's administration requested the meeting to learn U.S. views on the defense of these islands.

Magsaysay, a bitter foe of the Reds, spent Sunday on his yacht, completing the report he will give Wilson. During the last week he has met with his top military advisers.

A government spokesman said the Wilson-Magsaysay talks will seek to determine the best possible manner of strengthening United States-Philippine security in this critical area.

Red Demonstrators Arrested In Berlin

BERLIN, May 23 (AP)—More than 150 slogan-shouting Communist youths were arrested today when they demonstrated against the European army treaty in various West Berlin districts, police headquarters said. Most of the youths were soon released.

Hundreds of youths from East Berlin and East Germany had trickled into the U.S. and French sectors, gathered there in groups and attempted to win converts among Sunday strollers against the European Defense Community. Outraged West Berliners, however, used their fists in support of club-swinging police squads to disperse the young Communists.

No Extradition Of Leech Will Be Asked Now

Prosecutor Declares Evidence In Slaying Not Legally Sufficient

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 23 (AP)—U.S. Chief Prosecutor Thomas L. Leland announced tonight the evidence in the slaying of three American officers in 1946 is "not in its present form legally sufficient" for a request to extradite former Army Capt. James M. Leech, of Lima, Ohio.

Leech was accused last Friday, by Leland's deputy, of the assassination murder of the three officers at Passau, Germany, in January 1946. Leech has denied the charges.

Three-Week Delay Likely

After plowing through the file of the eight-year-old murder case, Leland said in a statement:

"Although the evidence in this triple homicide is sufficient for the issuance of an arrest warrant, it is not in its present form legally sufficient for an extradition request."

"It appears that my office will therefore not be in a position to forward the case to the (U.S.) high commissioner for at least three weeks."

The charges against Leech were filed by Deputy U.S. Prosecutor William Canfield, of Hampden, Mass., after the Army had turned over the files of the case to U.S. High Commission legal authorities a few weeks ago.

Victims Are Identified

The three victims in the slaying were Maj. Everett S. Coffran, of Washington, D.C., Capt. Adrian L. Wessler, of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Lt. Stanley M. Rosewater, of Omaha, Neb. Canfield contends that Leech, a deputy to Coffran, killed the three officers with an ax and then set their house afire with gasoline.

Chief Atty. Leland, of Boston, Mass., announced yesterday extradition of Leech would not be sought until he had made a "full study of the case." Leland was in Bremen prosecuting a bribery case when Canfield announced the charges here against Leech on Friday. Canfield is due to return to the United States in two weeks. It would be Leland's task to prosecute the triple-murder case if it ever comes to trial in an American occupation court.

Cops Halt Happy Duo's Bell-Ringing

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Two men, about 12 hours too early for services and too high to hear the sermon, spent Sunday morning in jail after spending last night ringing church bells.

Twenty-five policemen by actual count were needed to stop the bell-ringing and restore peace and quiet to the neighborhood around Our Lady of Good Counsel church.

They were called as some 250 people gathered in the street to watch two men perched 75 feet atop the pinnacle of the church roof, ringing the bells for all they were worth.

Two policemen went after them, inch by inch along the narrow rooftop of the south Baltimore church, arguing and pleading with the pair to come down.

Just as the officers reached them, the two lost their footing, but the strong arms of the law were within grabbing distance then and the jubilant bell-ringers and the nervous policemen were helped to safety.

NAACP Launches Campaign To End School Segregation

ATLANTA, May 23 (AP)—A local community level campaign for early elimination of public school segregation was launched by the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People here today.

Branches in all affected areas were instructed to petition local school boards for immediate ending of racial separation in schools, and to offer assistance in working out problems.

Representatives of chapters in 18 states having mandatory segregation made plans to carry the campaign to the local school boards at a two-day session here.

The new strategy was announced in an "Atlanta declaration" read at a morning news conference.

Possible opposition by some of the more outspoken foes of non-segregation was mentioned only briefly.

But at an afternoon meeting, the veteran NAACP leader, Executive Secretary Walter White called Govs. Herman Talmadge of Georgia and James F. Byrnes of South

KILLS CHILDREN, SELF—Marine Capt. Michael P. Carr (above), Augusta, Ga., slashed to death his three children, critically wounded his wife and then ended his life with a butcher knife in his home at Jacksonville, N. C. He was stationed at Camp Lejeune. Police said they could find no motive for the tragedy.

Reds Will Permit French To Help Repair Airstrip

HANOI, Indochina, May 23 (AP)—French army headquarters announced today helicopters and small planes slowly evacuating French wounded from smashed Dien Bien Phu have brought out 115 more, for a total thus far of 291. More than 100 more were expected to reach Luang Prabang, Laos' royal capital, during the day.

The French said they hope the Vietnamese rebels soon will make further repairs to the pockmarked airstrip at the fallen fortress. This would permit landing of Dakota transports to speed up evacuation of the remaining 1,300 to 2,000 French Union casualties.

(Red China's radio at Peiping broadcast Sunday night that the Vietnamese chief, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, had agreed to a May 17 offer of aid by the French to repair the airport. Giap called on the French to send in engineers to remove mines on the strip, allowing the larger Dakotas to land.

French Plane Offer Refused

(The broadcast said the Giap turned down an offer of French planes to help evacuate wounded rebels, as part of the bargain, and that the Vietnamese general also protested French bombing of Highway 41, a supply route. Giap asked for a cessation of bombings around Dien Bien Phu until all wounded are evacuated from the area.

Giap also rejected a French proposal for a mixed commission to decide what traffic should move on Highway 41.

(The original French offer was broadcast to the rebels over the French radio last Monday night. Giap's reply said the total wounded to be released was 858—and listed Vietnamese, French North African soldiers and numerous nationalities in the French Foreign Legion among that number.)

French Continue Air Blows

French fighters and bombers continued today to heavily hammer Vietnamese troops moving east from fallen Dien Bien Phu.

B26's Corsairs, Privateers and fighters from land and carrier bases concentrated their assaults on provincial Route 41 over which the Vietnamese are continuing to shift heavy forces, artillery and antiaircraft batteries toward the western defense perimeter of the delta.

Move Afoot To Dismiss Hensel, Carr

Potter And Jackson Would Not Object To Excusing Principals

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Sens. Potter (R-Mich) and Jackson (D-Wash) said today they would have no objection to eliminating two principals in the Army-McCarthy dispute, one on either side, but they believe Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Roy M. Cohn should testify fully in their own behalf.

Potter and Jackson said in separate interviews they do not believe Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel, an Army principal, or Francis P. Carr, McCarthy's chief of staff, has been linked closely with charges on which the Senate Investigations subcommittee will resume televised hearings tomorrow at 10 a.m. EDT.

"I would have no objection if Hensel and Carr were eliminated as principals," Potter said. "But I think McCarthy and Cohn would want to testify in their own behalf."

McCarthy Ready To Testify

McCarthy said over the weekend that "of course I will be available to testify at any time."

As for his aides, Cohn and Carr, McCarthy said: "I shall advise my staff to testify if they are called upon, but I will not order them to testify."

Jackson said the case against Hensel and Carr thus far has been "most inconclusive." He added, however, that the committee ought to wait until the Army's case is in and some decision is made on whether to admit monitored telephone calls into evidence before any final disposition is made of charges against them.

If nothing new develops, Jackson said he thinks Hensel and Carr might be dismissed then.

Secretary of the Army Stevens has charged McCarthy, Carr, and Cohn, who is McCarthy's chief counsel, with exerting undue pressure in attempts to get favored treatment in the Army for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former non-salaried consultant in McCarthy's Communist probes.

Stevens To Take Stand

McCarthy has replied with charges that Stevens and his aides tried to use Schine as a "hostage" in alleged efforts to sidetrack an investigation of Communists in the Army.

The Wisconsin senator accused Hensel of ramrodding the charges against him, but after President Eisenhower barred testimony against a Jan. 21 meeting of administration leaders at which the charges were discussed, McCarthy said he might have been mistaken.

Stevens is scheduled to take the stand at tomorrow's resumption of the hearings to swear that the Army had sole responsibility for making the charges against McCarthy, and that they were not inspired by other administration officials.

This may lay him open to cross examination by McCarthy on what he may have heard about the Jan. 21 meeting, at which Stevens himself was not present. Those attending included Atty. Gen. Brownell, Sherman Adams, White House chief of staff, and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Party Crasher Attempts Suicide

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., May 23 (AP)—Police disclosed today that a party crasher was seized during a lawn party at the mansion of film executive Jack L. Warner Friday and later tried to hang himself in his jail cell after being arrested on suspicion of burglary.

Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson identified him as Kenneth Bowe, 27, a salesman of Manhattan Beach. Anderson said Bowe has been a fugitive from petty theft charges since 1950.

Anderson said Bowe boldly drove past guards at gates of the extensive Warner estate, giving the appearance of a guest. The police chief said he was found prowling through the 30-room house while other guests were at tennis courts and a swimming pool a quarter of a mile from the main residence. He was discovered by a maid who called guards.

42 Mau Maus Killed

NAIROBI, Kenya, May 23 (AP)—British troops and police shot dead 42 Mau Mau terrorists in five week-end battles, army headquarters reported today.

Byrd Confident Of Victory In 20 Of Counties

H. C. Byrd, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in the primary election June 28, declared during a weekend visit here that "we're confident of carrying 20 of the 23 counties and expect to carry four of the districts in Baltimore City."

Byrd said that the majority from the county's vote was enough to win the nomination without the Baltimore City votes. "We're pretty sure of the votes from the counties," he added. "We will also take at least half of Baltimore City's vote," Byrd predicted.

Byrd said the condition of highways in Allegany and Garrett counties is "preposterous." "Gov. McKeldin has had four years in which to do something about the poor condition of roads in these two counties, but has failed to do much to remedy the situation," Byrd charged.

"Elect me and I promise that within two years I'll do something to rebuild the highway system in this whole Western Maryland area," Byrd declared.

After a brief stop at Byrd election headquarters on South Liberty Street the candidate left for a tour of Georges Creek town, with county Democratic leaders who are supporting him. He stopped in Luke, Westernport, Barton, Pekin, Lonaconing, Gilmore, Midland and Frostburg, winding up as principal speaker Saturday night at the dinner in Frostburg for the Night Mining classes.

The Celenese pool will also "jump the gun" on the traditional opening of swimming season (Memorial Day) by beginning operation on Saturday, May 29. Keller said Paul A. Hilaire will be pool manager and Raymond J. "Ike" Law, swimming instructor.

The most beautiful bride is the one whose smile is aglow with happiness.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The bride's mind is chock-full of a million and one matters, whether the ceremony is ultra-formal or informal as can be. There are lists and letters and details unimagined when first the wedding was planned.

Through all the details, however, the days between the wedding's announcement and its actual occurrence should be the happiest of times. The planning and the parties should be fun for the bride-to-be, or else they will take their toll in a "done to death" look.

I speak from experience, having seen one young woman of my acquaintance nearly faint as she approached the altar... not from the excitement of the occasion, but because she was exhausted from the strain of making all the preparations herself and furnishing an apartment, besides. If a detail or two must be left to chance, leave it, rather than be in a frenzy on your wedding day.

Happy Day
The vision of loveliness that every bride desires to be is possible only when she is composed and serene, with a glowing smile as she moves down the aisle on her father's arm.

Here, again, I illustrate with a "don't". Don't be like another bride I recall, whose searching, wondering gaze during the ceremony brought forth a whisper from the woman sitting just ahead of me: "I don't believe she's quite made up her mind! How disturbing to the groom!"

As a matter of fact, the bride's near-frown disturbed everyone present. Guests wondered if they should sympathize with her, or extend elated good wishes!

To Look Lovely
Don't hesitate to let your happiness be apparent, if you'd hear comments of "What a lovely bride!" A smile should be part of your greetings for every guest.

It's merely common-sense etiquette that you are gracious to one and all. This is a matter so basic that you won't find it mentioned in the books you consult on proper dress and wedding procedure. The priceless ingredient that keeps the formalities of etiquette from seeming too formal is the personality you lend to them. And most important in this respect is your smile!

Tomorrow — The way you say "I do."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 22 (INS) — If the deal goes through, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz will own Motion Picture Center, the studios where independent movie and TV films are made.

When this rumor came to me, I telephoned Lucy in Palm Springs, where she and Desi have been having a wonderful holiday.

"You know me," said Lucille, "I know nothing about business. But I do know that Motion Picture Center is for sale and that Desi has been talking about it. He's so busy playing golf, I don't believe he's signed any papers yet."

Although their series, "I Love Lucy," has been filmed at General Service Studios, which had a fire last week, Lucy and Desi would headquarter at Motion Picture Center should they buy it.

Over the long distance telephone from Washington came the familiar voice of Director Fritz Lang. Just five minutes before, he had signed a contract to direct "Moon Fleet," which will star Stewart Granger and will have John Houseman as producer.

"I just had to tell you," said Fritz, "because 20 years ago I made 'Fury' at MGM with Spencer Tracy and Sylvia Sydney, and I haven't been back to that studio in all these years."

Fritz is in Washington to try to get a clearance for "A Woman in the Moon," a German picture he made for UFA many years ago.

At the Mocambo a few evenings ago, Eva Gabor sat next to me. She was beamed by Mike Connolly, and while he wasn't listening—at least I hope he wasn't—she told me all about her plans.

She returns to New York early next month and goes into rehearsal in August for "Darling, Darling, Darling," for Anita Loos. Anita is writing an adaptation of Jean Pierre Gredy's play. This is the second play by this young man Anita is bringing to the American stage.

Eva says she hopes to come back to Hollywood after the run of her play, and she plans to buy a house here.

She studiously avoided the subject of Zsa Zsa, whose actions Eva doesn't approve.

Bright and early, Sally Forrest telephoned me from New York to say that Saturday she has her dress rehearsal for "Seven Year Itch." She replaces Vanessa Brown on Monday and plays a 16-week engagement on Broadway.

"All my life I've wanted this kind of break," said Sally, "and now I'm so nervous!"

She says she is coming back here to take up her contract with BKO after "Seven Year Itch" closes. In the meantime, she hopes all her friends will hold a good thought for her opening night.

Still another religious picture, "Day of Triumph," joins the impressive list of biblical stories coming. Based on climactic incidents in the life of Christ, "Day of Triumph" will be produced by the Rev. James Friedrich, with Robert Wilson portraying the Saviour, Irving Pichel, former actor, will co-direct with John T. Coyle.

Let's see—this makes C. B. DeMille's "Ten Commandments" and Darryl Zanuck's "The Greatest Story Ever Told," plus MGM's "The Prodigal" among the great religious spectacles scheduled for screening. With the sad old world in the shape it's in, the message of peace all these films will carry is greatly needed.

A switch in plans, please. Gary Crosby will not have his old man on his first radio program as a full-fledged star taking over Bing's show for the summer.

No, sir—after due thought and consultation with his writer-producer, Bill Morrow, Gary has decided on more glamor—a whole quartet of it—Jane Russell, Rhonda Fleming, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis. The girls will render their latest song "Give Me That Old Time Religion."

Twenty-year-old Gary's show will be heard June 6 with Bing listening in from Elko.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Beverly Hills, of Beverly Hills, will be married at the Beverly Hills Hotel, to Lt. Alan Crossman July 10. Beverly, as all the world knows, is comedienne Joan Davis' daughter.

There's a rumor that 20th may one of these days star Marilyn Monroe in her own life story, and that wouldn't be bad.

Andre Kostelanetz and Lily Pons are going to work together again in the East, and Andre sends word that his new album is featuring Jimmy McHugh's "I'm in the Mood for Love."

Mrs. Charlie Morrison is giving a cocktail party and shower for Dorothy Gray, who will marry Harry Joe Brown in June.

The graduation essay Jill Schary, daughter of the Dore Scharys, gave at the Town and Country School in Bel Air, was so good that it's being kept to read to other graduating classes.

Jack Webb has sold his Beverly Hills mansion and gone back to live with his mother in her modest five room house in Hollywood. With 14 hours a day for work schedule, Jack didn't have time to enjoy his big house.

Congratulations to Sheila and Gordon Macrae on their 13th wedding anniversary. Sheila flew out to be with Gordon in Youngstown, Ohio.

Harpo and Chico Marx headline the Desert Inn Show in Las Vegas May 25.

June Haver has sold the $70,000 apartment building which she gave her mother when she entered a convent, and which her mother turned back to her when she came out.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Officers Nominated By Auxiliary Police

Officers of the Volunteer Auxiliary Police were nominated at a meeting Thursday night at the Canada House, North Mechanic Street, according to Joseph M. Harrison, chief of the auxiliary force.

Harold Armbruster, the incumbent president, will be opposed by Lonnie I. Jackson for that office. Nominees for vice president are C. T. Guthridge and Joseph Lookaugh. Nominated without opposition were Elmer G. Seward, treasurer; Nicholas Carder, secretary; and A. L. Fisher, trustee.

The election will be conducted at a meeting Thursday evening, June 17, at the Hose House, Chief Harrison said, adding that all members are to be present.

The Auxiliary Police are completing plans for a dance to be held Friday evening, June 25, at the State Armory. Funds from the affair will be used to purchase rescue equipment. Chief Harrison stated, Lonnie I. Jackson is in charge of arrangements.

A vast rain-forest encircles the earth between the tropics. It extends across northern South America to northern Australia. Half of the continent of South America is covered by this forest belt.

Social Security's Extension Nearer

It may not be long before virtually everybody with earned income in the United States is eligible for Social Security old-age and survivors insurance.

That's the significance of the Social Security expansion program now being worked out in the House Ways and Means Committee. In both his State of the Union messages President Eisenhower recommended extension of coverage to the millions of citizens who so far have been left out of the system.

Extension and liberalization of old-age insurance has strong bipartisan support in Congress. The Social Security Act of 1935 had as its ultimate goal the provision of retirement income, as a matter of right, for all the nation's aged.

About 70 million persons including beneficiaries are now covered by Social Security old-age insurance. The administration proposals would bring the total to more than 80 million.

Congress appears in a mood to go along substantially with the specific recommendations incorporated in President Eisenhower's special social security message of January 14 last. For example, the Ways and Means Committee agreed on May 19 to the mandatory inclusion of doctors and dentists in the system, over the objections of the American Medical Association and the American Dental Association.

Among the more than 10 million to which coverage would be extended by the administration bill, sponsored by Chairman Reed (R., N. Y.), are 3.6 million farm operators and about 2 million part-time farm workers. Some 0.7 million farm workers with continuous employment are already covered.

As of May 20, the committee had agreed to extend coverage to the farm operators, but had deferred action on the part-time farm workers. Other agreements reached by that time included extension of coverage to some 0.3 million professional workers (including the doctors and dentists), to some 0.25 million ministers and members of religious orders (optional), to some 0.2 million additional domestic workers, and to some 2.2 million additional state and local government employees (optional).

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Economics Of Foreign Policy

Robert E. Asher, until recently of the State Department, stated the broad objectives of the economic side of the American foreign policy as follows:

"We want economic conditions in the free world which will attract peoples and governments toward the democratic system of political freedom, as opposed to totalitarian systems like Soviet communism."

That foreign aid had that design has been clear since the enunciation of the Marshall Plan at Harvard in 1947. This has cost the American taxpayer between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 a year since then. The expenditures of these vast sums were supposed to bring us allies. In 1954, it can be said that its objectives have not been achieved. If anything, neutralism as between ourselves and Soviet Russia has been on the increase the world over, particularly among the countries we have aided. (In this connection, it ought not to be forgotten that our gifts to Soviet Russia during World War II came to at least $11,000,000,000.)

Gifts are one phase of the problem. Another is the increasing emphasis on tariff reduction and upon changes in customs procedures. This can be in practice even a greater gift than a credit under a program of aids. For instance, those funny little automobiles that are beginning to appear on our roads, made in Great Britain and now being sold freely in the United States, can provide Great Britain with a better trade balance. It is trade not aid. Selling at a lower price than American cars, these bantams can seriously affect the American automobile market because they are non-competitively manufactured. In fact, American capital is being exported to European countries to produce this commodity using low-wage labor and less favorable working conditions.

Senator George Malone heads a committee of the Senate which is investigating this particular problem, especially the relationship of American industry to war, should World War III occur. This investigation is of singular importance but has been overshadowed by a lot of nonsense.

Mr. Asher makes a further point which could involve this country in a peculiar share-the-wealth concept on an international scale. He said:

"We have a special interest in the economic strength of our partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and of the countries on the periphery of Soviet power. In the North Atlantic Treaty area we want economic conditions which will enable the NATO countries to devote a substantial part of their resources to the common military effort for as long as is necessary, without preventing improvements in their standards of living. In countries on the periphery of Soviet power we want to eliminate economic weaknesses that threaten political stability and invite Communist subversion."

Such a program is so enormous that it is hardly conceivable in practical terms. It would start with the stabilization of the currency of each of these countries as the only way to protect the economy of a country is to stabilize its currency and to increase values. The program is, of course, sound in principle even though too costly if the NATO countries are true allies. It is cheaper than having another war, which would cost at least as much as World War II, which was more than $300,000,000,000 plus about $100,000,000,000 for aid since.

But the predicate of the problem is "Do we have true allies?" At the Geneva Conference it does not appear that the principal countries are true allies in the sense that there is any common program to which they all subscribe. It might even be said that they are our allies concerning Europe but not concerning Asia. But the two cannot be separated because they are one. This we and the European allies should have learned when Russia incorporated China in the Soviet Union State while we were fussing over the Berlin airlift, which was a diversion. The danger then is that we expend our wealth to no advantage.

If Mr. Asher's program is official policy, it is necessary to discover what such a program will cost the American taxpayer, how it will affect our own economy, and how many years it is to last. It is not a program to run on a year by year basis. If it is continuous for decades, it can wreck the American economy by increasing public debt and keeping taxes at punitive rates, which they now are.

Serious Thought Needed On Atomic Dictatorship Plan

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

In Washington nowadays, the big questions hardly seem to get discussed at all. For example, it is really a good idea to establish a personal dictatorship in the vital field of atomic energy?

Back in the less emotional days when people were really thinking about the subject, this idea was quite decisively rejected by Congress and the country. Despite all the inconveniences of commission rule, a five-man Atomic Energy Commission was decided upon.

Power was equally divided among the commissioners. They were given staggered terms to insure continuity of policy. President Truman, who is seldom non-partisan, marked the intention that this should be a body above politics by naming four Republicans and only one Democrat as his first nominees.

The theory in those days, when people were pretty solemn about it, was that the Atomic Energy Commission should have a very special sort of dignity and impartiality; and that it should be a collective body to guard against abuse of its vast and secret powers.

Without ceremony, and with a maximum of concealment, the attempt is now going on to throw this former theory about the Atomic Energy Commission into the legislative trash basket. Very quietly, the new chairman of the commission, Admiral Lewis Strauss, has persuaded Rep. W. Sterling Cole to give him the instruments of unchallengeable personal power.

The provisions that will make Strauss the dictator in the atomic field are included in the new Atomic Energy Act, sponsored by Cole and Sen. Burke B. Hickenlooper. The hearings on the old McMahon Act attracted the concentrated attention of the nation. But the hearings on the new act have attracted no attention whatever, and no attention has been invited.

Two Important Provisions

Neither Strauss nor Cole nor Hickenlooper has given a hint of the proposed radical change in the principles on which the atomic program has hitherto been administered.

Right from the jump it became evident these men had met in solemn conclave to gag it up.

The late Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich frequently said that parents cannot eat for a child; they can only provide food. If more mothers and fathers took this statement to heart there would be fewer feeding problems in the home. Most youngsters come into the world with a fifth sense concerning dietetics, that should be cultivated and not criticized.

Two innocent-seeming provisions give Admiral Strauss the unparalleled powers that he desires to exercise in this difficult area of government, which is also the most important area for the security of this country.

One clause of the act makes the chairman the "principal officer" of the Atomic Energy Commission. Thus the chairman is placed above the other commissioners. He is enabled to act on his own judgment. And he is enabled too, if he fears opposition, to confront his hamstrung colleagues with accomplished facts of action and decision.

Since even the bathroom paper

The other vital clause of the act gives the commission, and of course its new principal officer, a power of censorship absolutely without parallel in the experience of any democratic nation. Anyone who receives "restricted" data and publishes it becomes liable to prosecution and fine, without any foolish formalities about proof of wrong intent. Furthermore any newspaper, magazine, or other publication that is suspected of being about to publish "restricted" data can be enjoined from doing so. Its issue of that day or week or month can be withheld from distribution. Thus great money losses can be arbitrarily inflicted.

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Public has built up a stockpile of compound indifference to her-ring-boned panels of Washington quiz-masters.

This stack of applied curiosity thought that Kefauver, Tobey and Hailey did okay in a dress rehearsal of televised justice. The Fifth Amendment was tailored to size and salted to taste.

The mills of the gods stripped their coars on vintage corn. The quizzers spring-boarded on coast-to-coast dialing. Their names became three household words, "Turn it off."

Somewhere in the middle of the parliamentary scuffle you sensed this was a political tangle with somebody rolling the snowballs for both sides.

The McCarthy-Stevens duel at sharpened wave lengths was a megalocyclic contest to a dull finish.

Right from the jump it became evident these men had met in solemn conclave to gag it up.

Food For Children Should Be Viewed With Child's Eye

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

WASHINGTON

The late Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich frequently said that parents cannot eat for a child; they can only provide food. If more mothers and fathers took this statement to heart there would be fewer feeding problems in the home. Most youngsters come into the world with a fifth sense concerning dietetics, that should be cultivated and not criticized.

The eating habits of children vary with each stage of development. During the first month of life, for example, an infant acquires a feeding schedule that embraces a definite rhythm. For this reason he should be fed when hungry and not when the clock strikes 3 and again at 7. While our man-made schedules roughly follow those of nature, exceptions occur which, unless recognized, occasion needless fear and worry.

Studies have demonstrated that young tots will select foods that satisfy their particular growth and energy requirements. They seem to like foods that are necessary and over a given period of time, consume a well balanced diet. When the throat and mouth muscles develop to such an extent that the infant is able to swallow semi-solid foods, he accepts cereals and eggs. Dry toast and crackers are appealing when the teeth are erupting and pieces of meat and cheese are favored after the molars appear.

Then, for some reason, at the end of the first year, the small fry become choosy and independent. Unless this stage of development is understood, parents will try to force the tyke to eat foods he does not care for. When the young fellow realizes that mother is frustrated or worried, he takes advantage of the situation.

Some youngsters will not get enough to eat unless their likes and dislikes are considered. Too bad they cannot be helped by an older child who has gone through the experience and knows what children like to eat rather than what adults think they should eat. Parents ought to encourage rather than suppress this stage of independence; let the lad pour his own milk and finger the food as much as he wishes. Part of his development is to find out what vealing acrobatics. "I thought you came here to reduce," sneered an acquaintance. "And that's what I'm doing," beamed the stout fellow. "I walk 11 miles every morning to watch this!"

Attorney General Has Prepared Alibi For Sen. McCarthy And His Finances

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Despite the headaches Senator McCarthy has given Attorney General Brownell and despite McCarthy's current demand that high-level talks in the Justice Department be made public, Brownell has worked out a careful alibi for Senator McCarthy regarding his strange finances.

When a taxpayer writes Brownell asking what has happened to the Senate report on McCarthy's financial operations, he receives the following reply:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter dated . . . concerning United States Senator Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin.

"The Senate subcommittee report on this matter has been carefully reviewed and the facts fail to indicate a violation of any existing federal criminal statutes. Accordingly, this department does not contemplate any further action in this matter.

"Your interest in writing to this department concerning this matter is appreciated."

The letter is signed for "Warren Olney III, assistant attorney general for the Criminal Division, by Ben Brooks, chief, General Crimes Section." However, the text of the letter was worked out very carefully with the sanction of Brownell himself, and thousands of these letters have been mailed to people who inquire about McCarthy's finances.

So here is another chapter on the carefully prepared Senate document, unanimously adopted by a Senate subcommittee, which Brownell has allowed to gather dust in his files, while the Justice Department mails out letters alibiing for McCarthy.

Communism Was Profitable

It has already been noted in an earlier column that before McCarthy discovered the issue of communism he was in constant hot water with his bank in Appleton, Wis. The Senate report also stated that McCarthy's bank deposits and those of his assistant, Ray Kiermas, "increased contemporaneously with the advent of McCarthy's fight to expose Communists."

In fact, his bank deposits, including heavy deposits of cash, skyrocketed. Presumably much of this money came from people who wanted to help him fight communism.

It has already been reported how $10,000 of this money, advanced by Congressman and Mrs. Alvin Bentley of Michigan, was used to speculate on the soybean market; and here is another illustration of concealed speculation through McCarthy's brother William.

"William P. McCarthy," according to the Senate report, "is employed in Chicago as a truck driver. He resides in a modest home at 1938 Wolfram Street and appears to be a man of modest means. There is no evidence that William P. McCarthy had any experience in the commodity market prior to 1938."

The Senate report then goes on to tell how William McCarthy received $2,025 from his senatorial brother in small deposits in his savings account during the year 1950. The deposits began coming in on February 20, 1950, just three weeks after the senator's first speech on communism.

Shortly after each deposit was made, the Senate committee stated, "similar amounts were charged to the general account of Senator McCarthy in the Riggs National Bank" in Washington.

Concealed Speculation

Meanwhile, William had been trading in the commodity market, obviously on behalf of his senatorial brother.

"Trading between December 22, 1950, and March 8, 1951, resulted in a profit of $2,109," notes the Senate committee. "And as of March 8, 1951, William had a credit balance with Daniel F. Rice and Co., of $7,159. On March 9, 1951, he closed out his account, and on that date Daniel F. Rice issued its check to William P. McCarthy for $7,159.

"On March 19," continued the Senate report, "an account was opened in the name of Julia Connolly, which is the maiden name of Mrs. William P. McCarthy. The account was opened with a cash deposit of $7,000, being a portion of the $7,159 check issued by Daniel F. Rice to William P. McCarthy."

"When interviewed on June 19, 1952," reported the Senate committee, "William P. McCarthy stated that the account was opened with the idea of concealing the account in the event of an investigation of Senator McCarthy's affairs."

Silent William

Brother William was not so cooperative when Senate investigators tried to interview him a second time on November 17, three months later. By that time, the Senate probe was getting hot, and William shut up like a clam.

What Senate probes wanted to talk to him about was something more important than commodity speculation—namely, the possibility that his brother, the senator, had finagled on his income tax.

Senator McCarthy's 1949 income tax, according to the Senate report, showed a deduction of $2,258 for interest paid to William P. McCarthy. The Senate committee then pointed to this strange fact: "There is no indication," it said, "that William P. McCarthy has ever had the financial capacity to loan anyone an amount that would earn interest of $2,258 in one year, or even in several years."

To have received interest of $2,258, William would have had to loan brother Joe about $40,000. And Senate inspection of his bank accounts showed that he never had more than $3,124.72 in the bank up until the time his brother began to advance money for speculating purposes.

Therefore, Joe McCarthy's deduction of $2,258 for interest, which materially reduced his income tax, raised doubts in the minds of investigating senators.

Vacant Land Values

houses may now be a sale. Women have gone crazy both over one-story houses (ranch type) and over ultra-wide skirts. There is a style in houses, like styles in dresses. Well-built and well-located large houses are now out of style. How long it will be before women get sensible and buy such houses again is anyone's guess.

Fear Of World War III

But one thing will always be in style, and that is vacant land—whether small city lots that can be used for parking, or fringe acreage just outside cities and towns. Thus far people have not taken seriously the fear of World War III, but now, with these "Evacuation Days," they are beginning to give up their rented city houses and buy in the suburbs.

If World War III should really look threatening, you will see a big boom in suburban property 20 miles out. Unless the price of land is frozen, it could double in value in a few weeks. Well-drained and well-located vacant land should not be sold.

Some Things Being Overdone

If World War III threatens, farms outside big cities which cannot now be sold at a fair price may again come into demand. I, however, am not bullish on all commercial farm land. This especially applies to many citrus groves, apple, peach, and other fruit orchards.

With the new big federal power and irrigation projects, there may be a surplus of high-priced irrigated lands. Irrigation can be overdone, the same as the building of motels and the manufacturing of automobiles. We may be approaching a time when there will be too many filling stations and automobiles.

Social Security's Extension Nearer

It may not be long before virtually everybody with earned income in the United States is eligible for Social Security old-age and survivors insurance.

That's the significance of the Social Security expansion program now being worked out in the House Ways and Means Committee. In both his State of the Union messages President Eisenhower recommended extension of coverage to the millions of citizens who so far have been left out of the system.

Extension and liberalization of old-age insurance has strong bipartisan support in Congress. The Social Security Act of 1935 had as its ultimate goal the provision of retirement income, as a matter of right, for all the nation's aged.

About 70 million persons including beneficiaries are now covered by Social Security old-age insurance. The administration proposals would bring the total to more than 80 million.

Congress appears in a mood to go along substantially with the specific recommendations incorporated in President Eisenhower's special social security message of January 14 last. For example, the Ways and Means Committee agreed on May 19 to the mandatory inclusion of doctors and dentists in the system, over the objections of the American Medical Association and the American Dental Association.

Among the more than 10 million to which coverage would be extended by the administration bill, sponsored by Chairman Reed (R., N. Y.), are 3.6 million farm operators and about 2 million part-time farm workers. Some 0.7 million farm workers with continuous employment are already covered.

As of May 20, the committee had agreed to extend coverage to the farm operators, but had deferred action on the part-time farm workers. Other agreements reached by that time included extension of coverage to some 0.3 million professional workers (including the doctors and dentists), to some 0.25 million ministers and members of religious orders (optional), to some 0.2 million additional domestic workers, and to some 2.2 million additional state and local government employees (optional).

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Economics Of Foreign Policy

Robert E. Asher, until recently of the State Department, stated the broad objectives of the economic side of the American foreign policy as follows:

"We want economic conditions in the free world which will attract peoples and governments toward the democratic system of political freedom, as opposed to totalitarian systems like Soviet communism."

That foreign aid had that design has been clear since the enunciation of the Marshall Plan at Harvard in 1947. This has cost the American taxpayer between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 a year since then. The expenditures of these vast sums were supposed to bring us allies. In 1954, it can be said that its objectives have not been achieved. If anything, neutralism as between ourselves and Soviet Russia has been on the increase the world over, particularly among the countries we have aided. (In this connection, it ought not to be forgotten that our gifts to Soviet Russia during World War II came to at least $11,000,000,000.)

Gifts are one phase of the problem. Another is the increasing emphasis on tariff reduction and upon changes in customs procedures. This can be in practice even a greater gift than a credit under a program of aids. For instance, those funny little automobiles that are beginning to appear on our roads, made in Great Britain and now being sold freely in the United States, can provide Great Britain with a better trade balance. It is trade not aid. Selling at a lower price than American cars, these bantams can seriously affect the American automobile market because they are non-competitively manufactured. In fact, American capital is being exported to European countries to produce this commodity using low-wage labor and less favorable working conditions.

Senator George Malone heads a committee of the Senate which is investigating this particular problem, especially the relationship of American industry to war, should World War III occur. This investigation is of singular importance but has been overshadowed by a lot of nonsense.

Mr. Asher makes a further point which could involve this country in a peculiar share-the-wealth concept on an international scale. He said:

"We have a special interest in the economic strength of our partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and of the countries on the periphery of Soviet power. In the North Atlantic Treaty area we want economic conditions which will enable the NATO countries to devote a substantial part of their resources to the common military effort for as long as is necessary, without preventing improvements in their standards of living. In countries on the periphery of Soviet power we want to eliminate economic weaknesses that threaten political stability and invite Communist subversion."

Such a program is so enormous that it is hardly conceivable in practical terms. It would start with the stabilization of the currency of each of these countries as the only way to protect the economy of a country is to stabilize its currency and to increase values. The program is, of course, sound in principle even though too costly if the NATO countries are true allies. It is cheaper than having another war, which would cost at least as much as World War II, which was more than $300,000,000,000 plus about $100,000,000,000 for aid since.

But the predicate of the problem is "Do we have true allies?" At the Geneva Conference it does not appear that the principal countries are true allies in the sense that there is any common program to which they all subscribe. It might even be said that they are our allies concerning Europe but not concerning Asia. But the two cannot be separated because they are one. This we and the European allies should have learned when Russia incorporated China in the Soviet Universal State while we were fussing over the Berlin airlift, which was a diversion. The danger then is that we expend our wealth to no advantage.

If Mr. Asher's program is official policy, it is necessary to discover what such a program will cost the American taxpayer, how it will affect our own economy, and how many years it is to last. It is not a program to run on a year by year basis. If it is continuous for decades, it can wreck the American economy by increasing public debt and keeping taxes at punitive rates, which they now are.

Casing The Joint

Serious Thought Needed On Atomic Dictatorship Plan

WASHINGTON

In Washington nowadays, the big questions hardly seem to get discussed at all. For example, it is really a good idea to establish a personal dictatorship in the vital field of atomic energy?

Back in the less emotional days when people were really thinking about the subject, this idea was quite decisively rejected by Congress and the country. Despite all the inconveniences of commission rule, a five-man Atomic Energy Commission was decided upon.

Power was equally divided among the commissioners. They were given staggered terms to insure continuity of policy. President Truman, who is seldom non-partisan, marked the intention that this should be a body above politics by naming four Republicans and only one Democrat as his first nominees.

The theory in those days, when people were pretty solemn about it, was that the Atomic Energy Commission should have a very special sort of dignity and impartiality; and that it should be a collective body to guard against abuse of its vast and secret powers.

Without ceremony, and with a maximum of concealment, the attempt is now going on to throw this former theory about the Atomic Energy Commission into the legislative trash basket. Very quietly, the new chairman of the commission, Admiral Lewis Strauss, has persuaded Rep. W. Sterling Cole to give him the instruments of unchallengeable personal power.

The provisions that will make Strauss the dictator in the atomic field are included in the new Atomic Energy Act, sponsored by Cole and Sen. Burke B. Hickenlooper. The hearings on the old McMahon Act attracted the concentrated attention of the nation. But the hearings on the new act have attracted no attention whatever, and no attention has been invited.

Two Important Provisions

Neither Strauss nor Cole nor Hickenlooper has given a hint of the proposed radical change in the principles on which the atomic program has hitherto been administered.

Right from the jump it became evident these men had met in solemn conclave to gag it up.

The late Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich frequently said that parents cannot eat for a child; they can only provide food. If more mothers and fathers took this statement to heart there would be fewer feeding problems in the home. Most youngsters come into the world with a fifth sense concerning dietetics, that should be cultivated and not criticized. The eating habits of children

ed. The idea has been, seemingly, to inter the old system huggler, like poor Ophelia.

Two innocent-seeming provisions give Admiral Strauss the unparalleled powers that he desires to exercise in this difficult area of government, which is also the most important area for the security of this country.

One clause of the act makes the chairman the "principal officer" of the Atomic Energy Commission. Thus the chairman is placed above the other commissioners. He is enabled to act on his own judgment. And he is enabled too, if he fears opposition, to confront his hamstringing colleagues with accomplished facts of action and decision.

Since even the bathroom paper gives the commission, and of course its new principal officer, a power of censorship absolutely without parallel in the experience of any democratic nation. Anyone who receives "restricted" data and publishes it becomes liable to prosecution and fine, without any foolish formalities about proof of wrong intent. Furthermore any newspaper, magazine, or other publication that is suspected of being about to publish "restricted" data can be enjoined from doing so. Its issue of that day or week or month can be withheld from distribution. Thus great money losses can be arbitrarily inflicted.

Public has built up a stockpile of compound indifference to hering-boned panels of Washington quiz-masters.

This stack of applied curiosity thought that Kefauver, Tobey and Halley did okay in a dress rehearsal of televised justice. The Fifth Amendment was tailored to size and salted to taste.

The mills of the gods stripped their cogs on vintage corn. The quizzers spring-boarded on coast-to-coast dialing. Their names became three household words, "Turn it off."

Somewhere in the middle of the parliamentary scuffle you sensed this was a political tangle with somebody rolling the snowballs for both sides.

The McCarthy-Stevens duel at sharpened wave lengths was a megacyclic contest to a dull finish.

Right from the jump it became evident these men had met in solemn conclave to gag it up.

That's why we admired Al Smith's bolt from the party in the twilight of his career. Al proved that a lifelong Democrat can also look through a Union League window brightly. He sure looked like Whistler's father.

Again their names became a household word, "Amisgray."

It became as plain as poorhouse cooking that it was not law and order versus gimmicks and capers. It was the Democrats against the Republicans and twice as versa.

And convinced us that Democrats and Republicans would vote or garbage disposal along party lines.

If they will do that what would happen if a Democrat needed blood plasma during a Republican administration?

Or a Republican wanted to rescue 11 kittens from a flooded cellar while the Democrats owned all the telephone booths?

That's why we admired Al Smith's bolt from the party in the twilight of his career. Al proved that a lifelong Democrat can also look through a Union League window brightly. He sure looked like Whistler's father.

Attorney General Has Prepared Alibi For Sen. McCarthy And His Finances

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Despite the headaches Senator McCarthy has given Attorney General Brownell and despite McCarthy's current demand that high-level talks in the Justice Department be made public, Brownell has worked out a careful alibi for Senator McCarthy regarding his strange finances.

When a taxpayer writes Brownell asking what has happened to the Senate report on McCarthy's financial operations, he receives the following reply:

However, the text of the letter was worked out very carefully with the sanction of Brownell himself, and thousands of these letters have been mailed to people who inquire about McCarthy's finances.

So here is another chapter on the carefully prepared Senate document, unanimously adopted by a Senate subcommittee, which Brownell has allowed to gather dust in his files, while the Justice

March 8, 1951, William had a credit balance with Daniel F. Rice and Co., of $7,159. On March 9, 1951, he closed out his account, and on that date Daniel F. Rice issued its check to William P. McCarthy for $7,159.

"On March 19," continued the Senate report, "an account was opened in the name of Julia Connolly, which is the maiden name of Mrs. William P. McCarthy. The account was opened with a cash deposit of $7,000, being a portion of the $7,159 check issued by Daniel F. Rice to William P. McCarthy."

"When interviewed on June 19, 1952," reported the Senate committee, "William P. McCarthy stated that the account was opened with the idea of concealing the account in the event of an investigation of Senator McCarthy's affairs."

Silent William
Brother William was not so cooperative when Senate investigators tried to interview him a second time on November 17, three months later. By that time, the Senate probe was getting hot, and William shut up like a clam.

What Senate probes wanted to talk to him about was something more important than commodity speculation—namely, the possibility that his brother, the senator, had finagled on his income tax.

Senator McCarthy's 1949 income tax, according to the Senate report, showed a deduction of $2,258 for interest paid to William P. McCarthy. The Senate committee then pointed to this strange fact: "There is no indication," it said, "that William P. McCarthy has ever had the financial capacity to loan anyone an amount that would earn interest of $2,258 in one year, or even in several years."

To have received interest of $2,258, William would have had to loan brother Joe about $40,000. And Senate inspection of his bank accounts showed that he never had more than $3,124.72 in the bank up until the time his brother began to advance money for speculating purposes.

Therefore, Joe McCarthy's deduction of $2,258 for interest, which materially reduced his income tax, raised doubts in the minds of investigating senators.

Communism Was Profitable
It has already been noted in an earlier column that before McCarthy discovered the issue of communism he was in constant hot water with his bank in Appleton, Wis. The Senate report also stated that McCarthy's bank deposits and those of his assistant, Ray Kiermas, "increased contemporaneously with the advent of McCarthy's 'fight' to expose Communists."

In fact, his bank deposits, including heavy deposits of cash, skyrocketed. Presumably much of this money came from people who wanted to help him fight communism.

It has already been reported how $10,000 of this money, advanced by Congressman and Mrs. Alvin Bentley of Michigan, was used to speculate on the soybean market; and here is another illustration of concealed speculation through McCarthy's brother William.

"William P. McCarthy," according to the Senate report, "is employed in Chicago as a truck driver. He resides in a modest home at 1938 Wolfram Street and appears to be a man of modest means. There is no evidence that William P. McCarthy had any experience in the commodity market prior to 1938."

The Senate report then goes on to tell how William McCarthy received $2,025 from his senatorial brother in small deposits in his savings account during the year 1950. The deposits began coming in on February 20, 1950, just three weeks after the senator's first speech on communism.

Shortly after each deposit was made, the Senate committee stated, "similar amounts were charged to the general account of Senator McCarthy in the Riggs National Bank" in Washington.

Concealed Speculation
Meanwhile, William had been trading in the commodity market, obviously on behalf of his senatorial brother.

"Trading between December 22, 1950, and March 8, 1951, resulted in a profit of $2,109," notes the Senate committee. "And as of

Vacant Land Values

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Old houses may now be a sale. Women have gone crazy both over one-story houses (ranch type) and over ultra-wide skirts. There is a style in houses, like styles in dresses. Well-built and well-located large houses are now out of style. How long it will be before women get sensible and buy such houses again is anyone's guess.

Fear Of World War III
But one thing will always be in style, and that is vacant land — whether small city lots that can be used for parking, or fringe acreage just outside cities and towns. Thus far people have not taken seriously the fear of World War III, but now, with these "Evacuation Days," they are beginning to give up their rented city houses and buy in the suburbs.

If World War III should really look threatening, you will see a big boom in suburban property 20 miles out. Unless the price of land is frozen, it could double in value in a few weeks. Well-drained and well-located vacant land should not be sold.

Some Things Being Overdone
If World War III threatens, farms outside big cities which cannot now be sold at a fair price may again come into demand. I, however, am not bullish on all commercial farm land. This especially applies to many citrus groves, apple, peach, and other fruit orchards.

With the new big federal power and irrigation projects, there may be a surplus of high-priced irrigated lands. Irrigation can be overdone, the same as the building of motels and the manufacturing of automobiles. We may be approaching a time when there will be too many filling stations and automobile agencies. More consolidations will be witnessed.

What About Inflation?
In view of what is happening in Indochina, it now seems: as if more inflation is inevitable. This may be hard on the housewife and those with fixed incomes, but it should help well-located vacant land and certain other real estate. In view of the preferred treatment received during World War II by the owners of business property, some vacant business property may now be a good purchase.

Inflation should also help farm prices and aid merchants. I am especially bullish on the market prices of the securities of the drug and variety chains. Many of these stocks now yield from 5 per cent to 10 per cent and should benefit from mild inflation. Too much inflation can harm everybody except the stock brokers, who are foolishly urging inflation along.

Taft-Hartley And Inflation
I forecast that the proposed legislation to amend the Taft-Hartley Bill will remain buried until after the November elections. If it had passed Congress as President wanted, it would have made our dollar worth more. If it had passed

Twice, 14-3 And 2-1

CLEVELAND, May 23 (AP)—Pitcher Art Houtteman won his own game today with a 12th-inning double that scored George Strickland and gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles in the nightcap of a double-header. The Indians' 11th straight victory was sent into extra innings on a homer by Al Rosen, his 11th of the season. Bob Feller won his 25th major league game in the opener, 14-3.

Sweeping a four-game series with the Orioles, the Indians pushed their American League lead to 2½ games over Chicago, and 3½ over New York.

Houtteman, who won his second against two losses, poked out his game-winning double after Rudy Regalado flied out and Jim Hegan fanned.

Righthander Bob Turley had shut the Indians out until the ninth, when Rosen led off with a circuit clout over the right field fence, his eighth home run in nine games.

The Indians' double victory gave them their longest winning streak in three years.

Fairgo Racing Dates Are June 23 To July 3

State Racing Body Gives OK, Reynolds Says

Littleton To Head Mutuels; Good Grade Of Horses Assured

Edgar H. Reynolds, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, last night announced that the association's ten-day racing meet definitely will be held at Fairgo from Wednesday, June 23 through Saturday, July 3.

Reynolds made the announcement after being advised yesterday by D. Eldred Rinehart, chairman, that the Maryland Racing Commission had approved the dates for the racing program to be conducted at the Fairgo half mile oval.

Good Horses Assured

The local general manager stated that J. Fred Colwill, racing secretary, has assured the association that a good grade of thoroughbreds will be shipped here by various stables from Pimlico, Bowie and Laurel, the state's milers, and from other tracks on the Maryland circuit.

Reynolds said the association has received assurance there will be an ample force in the paramilitary department to handle the wagering. Robert C. Littleton will be the director of wagering for the 10-day meeting.

Since Charles Town is scheduled to launch a 36-day meeting on July 5 many of the thoroughbreds racing here will be vanned to the West Virginia track at the conclusion of the local meeting.

Post Time 2 p. m. EDT

Purses at Fairgo will be the same as last year. A total of $80,000 will be distributed during the ten days, an average of $8,000 a day. Post time for the first race each day will be 2 o'clock, EDT.

The dates originally assigned Cumberland were August 4 to 14 but there was a conflict with the July 5-August 14 meet at nearby Charles Town. It was proposed that the meet be shifted to Marlboro's half mile oval but directors of the local association could not see eye-to-eye on the plan to move flat racing from Fairgo where it has been an annual feature since 1925.

Five-day meetings were held 1925 through 1934 and the ten-day sessions have been held each year since 1935. Last year's races were held from Saturday, June 13 through Wednesday, June 24.

Post Is Hero

ST. LOUIS, May 23 (AP)—Wally Post, who hit two homers last night, drove in five runs today with another home run and a double as the Cincinnati Redlegs knocked the St. Louis Cardinals out of the National League lead, 13-6.

Post, who has belted five of his seven homers off St. Louis pitching, broke even in a batting duel with Ray Jablonski, the Cardinals' league-leading hitter. Jabbo boosted his average to .380 by knocking in five tallies with his seventh home run, a double and a single.

Giants Trim Phils

PHILADELPHIA, May 23 (AP)—The New York Giants peppered Curt Simmons and two other Philadelphia Phillies pitchers with 11 well-placed hits today as the Giants took their second in a row from Philadelphia, 6-4.

Three Giant pitchers constantly balked the frustrated Philadelphiaans, leaving 13 of them stranded on bases.

New York knocked Simmons out of the box after the second inning, getting four runs on six hits off the young southpaw ace.

White Sox Obtain Kell From Bosox

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS)—General Manager Joe Cronin announced today that the Boston Red Sox have sold veteran third baseman George Kell to the Chicago White Sox for infielder Grady Hatton and "a sizable amount of cash."

Cronin declined to name the amount received for the 31-year-old Kell, but said "we got so much money for him we just couldn't turn it down."

Kell has been a .300 hitter for eight seasons. He led the American League in batting in 1949 with a .343 mark and going into this season had a lifetime batting average of .311.

Reynolds made the announcement after being advised yesterday by D. Eldred Rinehart, chairman, that the Maryland Racing Commission had approved the dates for the racing program to be conducted at the Fairgo half mile oval.

Sweep Double Bill With Bucs, 5-4, 6-2

BROOKLYN, May 23 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers climbed into first place today sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 5-4 and 6-2. Duke Snider hit two home runs in the nightcap after Preacher Roe went the route for the first time this season and scored the winning run in the opener.

However, the Dodgers had to share the lead with Milwaukee, which also won a doubleheader today, over the Chicago Cubs.

Roe, who came here from Pittsburgh in 1948 and has never lost to the Bucs, beat his old club for the seventh straight time. The veteran southpaw allowed nine hits with four of them bunched in the second when the Pirates scored three runs. Sid Gordon's first homer of the season accounted for the other in the eighth.

Gil Hodges drove in three of the Brooklyn runs with his ninth homer and a single.

Jackie Robinson shared honors with Snider in the nightcap. The Negro star, returning to action after another four-day rest on his troublesome heel, accounted for three of the Dodgers hits off George O'Donnell and Johnny Hetki.

Barrelville, Eckhart, Hyndman Are Victors

VICTORIOUS in the Maryland State Meet for the sixth time in eight years on Saturday, Fort Hill High's thinclads will be shooting for their sixth victory in seven outings this season when they oppose Allegany High's Campers in the city championship event Friday at 3:15 at Fort Hill Stadium.

The Sentinels rolled up 47½ points Saturday at College Park to regain the state Class "A" crown that went to Towson last year. Other scores were: Montgomery Blair 32, Northwestern 24, Towson 16, Frederick 10, Beall 8, Suitland 6, Howard County 5, Hagerstown 5, Catonsville 5, Bladensburg 4½, Bethesda-Chevy Chase 4, Milford Mill 3, Bel Air 3 and Kenwood 2.

Allegany, Westminster, Sparrows Point, Richard Montgomery and Annapolis failed to score a point. Centerville won Class B honors with 47 points and Washington (Princess Anne) topped Class C with 74 tallies.

One of the records Fort Hill bettered had been on the books for 33 years. The Sentinels' mile relay quartet of Gilpin, Stepe, Smith and Anderson covered the distance in 3:36.7, beating the old mark of 3:36.8 set by Baltimore City in 1921. Fort Hill's 880 relay team of Kerns, Bittner, Teets and Anderson, also hung up a new record of 1:34.5, bettering the 1:34.9 mark set last year by Towson. Six new records were established in the Class A events.

Fort Hill's girls volleyball team retained the state title by defeating Bethesda, 48-1, Annapolis 26-6 and Frederick 42-3, Westminster 29-4 and Bel Air 21-7.

The Fort Hill boys scored as follows: 100—Kerns, 4th (1); 400—Gilpin, 2nd (3); 440 Relay—Fort Hill, 2nd (6); 880 Relay—Fort Hill, 1st (10); Mile Relay—Fort Hill, 1st (10); Broad Jump—Kerns, 1st (5); Teets, tied for 4th (4½); Shot Put—Stepe, 2nd (3); Discus—Weber, 1st (5); Brant, 2nd (3); Pole Vault—Anderson, tie for 4th (3½).

Tommy Emmatt, Beall, won the 220 and Stevenson, Beall, was 2nd in the 880 run.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it: ANYDLBAANR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Unidentified Man Found Hanging In W. Va. Woods

Mystery Surrounds Stranger's Death

Mystery shrouds the death of a clean-shaven, neatly dressed elderly man who was found hanging from a tree atop Location Mountain in the remote wilds of Tucker County, W. Va., yesterday afternoon.

The body of the unknown man was discovered at about 3 p. m. by a farmer who was walking through the rugged woodlands towards a roadway about a mile and half distant.

Fred Barr, who owns a farm near the summit of Location Mountain, told authorities he found the body as he was walking toward Location Road on his way to St. George, which is several miles north of Parsons, the county seat.

Barr, who had walked some distance through the rough terrain, said he had sat down at the foot of the trunk of a huge tree which had fallen over. As he rested, he glanced in the air and just a few feet away from him saw the body of a man swaying back and forth from a large limb of the tree.

Dead 24 Hours

The farmer, unable to get in touch with anyone in the immediate area, walked into Parsons to report his finding to the authorities around 5:30 o'clock.

Justice of the Peace Stark Coker, who acted as coroner, Trooper James Rightmire of the Thomas detachment of the West Virginia State Police and Dr. Guy H. Michael Sr., county health officer, accompanied Barr to the spot.

The officers had to walk more than a mile into the woodlands before reaching the fallen tree.

After cutting the body down Dr. Michael examined it and said the man had been dead for over 24 hours. Close investigation showed no identification of any kind on his person. Small change amounting to 33 cents and a skeleton key, were the only belongings found on the body.

Coker said the man was about 70 years old, was clean-shaven, neatly dressed, with a carefully folded white handkerchief in his breast pocket. He was wearing brown trousers, blue shirt, suspenders and black shoes and socks. He apparently weighed about 145 to 150 pounds. He was bald, with graying hair around the sides of his head. His height was about 5 feet, 9 inches.

The acting coroner said the man apparently had walked into the wild region, had removed his coat and neatly folded it on a wooden slab at the base of the tree, had walked up the sloping trunk of the tree to the large, heavy limbs, tied a brand new half-inch rope around his neck and around one of the larger limbs, and stepped into space.

Foul Play Not Discounted

When Barr found him he was hanging about three feet off the ground, Coker added.

A coroner's jury, composed of citizens from Parsons, returned a verdict of death by hanging. While no evidence of foul play was discovered, the jury would not discount homicide pending further investigation as to the man's identity and background.

Another hearing will be held today at the Greenleaf Funeral Home in Parsons where the body was taken last night. Authorities hope to find more about the man at that time.

State KC Meet Planned Here Next Year

OCEAN CITY, Md., May 23 (AP)—Stronger movie censorship laws and establishment of interdenominational chapels for Maryland mental institutions were urged today at a state convention of the Knights of Columbus.

The 425 delegates also reelected John P. Bauernschub of 4315 Loch Raven Blvd., Baltimore, as state deputy and voted to hold the 1955 convention in Cumberland. It will be the first time in eight years the meeting has been held outside Ocean City.

The movie censorship and interfaith chapel resolutions were among those adopted at the windup of a two-day session. Both are matters the organization has concerned itself with previously.

The K. of C. voted to do all it could to strengthen support of the board of censors "within limits of the recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions."

Other state officers elected today were: Frederick Gossman, 336 S. Taylor Ave., Baltimore, secretary; John Ward, Elkton, treasurer; Charles Fisher, Westminster, advocate; Austin Thomas, Frederick, warden.

Chosen to represent Maryland's 11,000 Knights at the national convention in Louisville, Ky., in August were: Bauernschub, Charles W. Bucy of Chevy Chase, Thomas Carolan of Chevy Chase, Joseph Strehlen of Towson, Wilbert Logsdon of Mount Savage, John Costello of Baltimore and Richard Essler of Saint Michaels.

Leaves Hospital

Francis H. Schultz, 427 Franklin Street, who has been a medical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, was discharged Saturday and is confined to his home.

MRS. MINNIE WELSHANS

Local Resident Will Fly To Germany To Join Son

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

A thrill of her lifetime is in store for Mrs. Minnie Welshans, 28 Memorial Avenue, when she takes a trip by air across the Atlantic Ocean to visit her son now serving in Germany with the Army.

Several of her close relatives and friends bade Mrs. Welshans "bon voyage" Friday night and waved goodbye as No. 12 pulled out of Queen City station en route to New York City.

She reports to Fort Hamilton, N. Y., prior to boarding a plane for Frankfurt, Germany. Later she will travel to Garmisch, where her son, WO (jg) Albert Welshans is in charge of a number of Army-operated dining rooms.

Mrs. Welshans, who expects to remain in Germany for about a year, remarked she was "quite thrilled," had always wanted to take an airplane ride, but didn't expect to travel by air such a long distance.

She said she could not speak a word of German and her only hope was that someone who could speak English would be at the Frankfurt airport to make sure she got to Garmisch. This detail will certainly be taken care of by military authorities.

Since her husband, the late Samuel H. Welshans, died last year, she has been residing with her daughter, Mrs. William Hixenbaugh. Besides her own two children, Mrs. Welshans has two grandchildren.

Just before leaving for overseas, she remarked she would remain about a year, "unless I get homesick."

The report showed the department spent $1,182.18 during the four-week period, including $882 for salaries. Total expenditures for the department this fiscal year now amounts to $32,486.63 of a $40,000 budget.

Anticipated expenditures for next month is $7,513.37. The biggest jump in the budget is $1,300 for swimming pool personnel as the summer months find area swimming pools opening around Memorial Day. Other large items for the final month of the fiscal year include $1,107.37 for playground equipment, $900 for playground personnel, $750 for baseball and softball equipment and other items.

The board also adopted the same policy as it did last year on admissions to the Constitution Park pool and at Penn Avenue field, and adopted a plan to charge a rental fee for the use of Penn Avenue's enclosed field by organizations which will charge admissions for their own profit or for groups utilizing the field for their own gain.

Attending the meeting were Recreation Director Pence, Chairman of the Board Lewyn C. Davis, Associate Judge George Henderson, Albert S. Payne and Mrs. Jack Yankelevitz, members.

Child Is Injured In Fall From Tree

A six-year-old boy fell about eight feet while climbing in a tree yesterday at his home near Mt. Savage and was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital suffering an injured left elbow.

Attaches said James Chisholm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Chisholm, RD 1, Mt. Savage, was admitted for X-rays and observation. His condition was reported as good. The accident occurred early yesterday afternoon.

The Weather

Sunny skies and ideal temperatures prevailed over the Cumberland area yesterday afternoon, although the mercury started to dip sharply at about 9 last night. The temperature remained in the mid-70s through most of the day. The weatherman calls for today to be sunny and warm, with the high temperature between 75 and 80. The humidity yesterday at 6 p. m. was 37 per cent, while the high official temperature was 75 degrees.

Idonis Injured In Washington Auto Accident

Cumberlanders Among Ten Persons Hurt

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Ten persons were hurt today in a two-car automobile collision when an auto operated by Millie M. Idoni, 16, of Cumberland, Md., struck a car driven by Joseph M. Basso, 40, of Washington, police reported.

The impact hurled several occupants of the two cars to the street, police said.

The accident occurred at the intersection of 14th and Taylor Streets, N. E.

Simon Greenberg, 68, and his wife, Mary, passengers in the Basso car, were seriously hurt. Lesser injuries were sustained by Basso and Mrs. Anita Lerner, 30. Her husband, Bernard, received minor cuts and bruises.

Police said only one of the four passengers riding with Miss Idoni, who is a student at Trinity College here, was admitted to Casualty Hospital.

She was identified as Rosemary Placencia, 22, of Mt. Rainier, Md. She was in fair condition with a broken left leg and possible head injuries.

Miss Idoni was treated for a lacerated right leg and released. Two cousins, Theresa Idoni, 20, and her brother, Frank Idoni, 22, both of Washington, were released after treatment for head and arm lacerations.

Mrs. Alex Idoni, 30, of Cumberland, sister-in-law of the Trinity College student, was released after treatment of head cuts.

Pvt. George Radovich and Robert Merritt of metropolitan police said Miss Idoni told them she failed to see a stop sign as she was driving north on 14th Street. Basso's car was going east on Taylor.

Rally Planned By Auto Club Next Month

The Western Pennsylvania Region of the Classic Car Club of America is planning a four-state rally at the Blue Dell Drive-In Theatre Sunday, June 6, at 1 p. m.

The Blue Dell Drive-In is located on the Lincoln Highway between Irwin and Pittsburgh.

The club extends an open invitation to all interested persons with driving distance, and especially to those people who own classic, antique, or sports cars.

The Western Pennsylvania Region is a relatively new branch of the national organization, and it is striving to make the forthcoming meet the largest ever held in Western Pennsylvania.

Prizes will be awarded to outstanding classic, antique, and sports cars, with a special award being given to the antique or classic car coming the greatest distance.

Knowles Elected

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 23 (AP)—Arthur W. Knowles of New Kensington, Pa., today succeeded Burdell E. Debolt of Cumberland, Md., as president of the Tri-State Typographical Conference.

Today's Sermonette

I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus. Gal. 6:17.

Today's sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at First Church of the Nazarene by the pastor, Rev. H. E. Heckert. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Flail Marks Of The Soul

By REV. H. E. HECKERT

The Apostle Paul gives this truth after he had been tested by enemies because of his religious convictions. As he closes this epistle he calls a halt to the controversy by informing his oppressors that from "Henceforth no one should trouble him, that he bore in his body the marks of the Lord Jesus. There is a mark that is born by the convict which is the mark of reproach. There is another mark which is that of recognition or the work of the love slave.

Let us consider the following marks which evidence themselves in our lives.

The mark of loneliness. There is no loneliness like the loneliness of love. It ever wakes to watch and wonder. The footsteps of the years make deep the tracks on the soul. Life and love cling forever to the skirts of God, and we may always touch His seamless robe. The soul is like the tendrils of a vine — they cling closer to the trellis as the summer wears away. The pain of parting has never found adequate voice. The soul feels what the lips have never spoken. Loneliness is as a wind that blows over our garden to waft the fragrance of the blooms within across the fence — the delight and joy of others. Which is emphasized in the words of Solomon, "Awake, O north wind; come thou south; blow upon my garden, that the spices (fragrance) thereof may flow out."

Then there is the mark of struggle which is God's plan for building the soul to large proportions. Somewhere along the way manhood must meet the wrestler. "Ease is the way to disease. Labor is the way of life." Struggle wins thrones, and struggle must hold them. Weary traveler, the Master went this way ere your feet pressed the hot sands. For His sacred feet consecrated the rugged road. Struggle is seen in nature. The tiny seed is buried in the soil. To come to its place of floral ministry it must master the elements about it. No flight were possible to the bird did not the air resist the pressure of its pinions.

Lastly, let us consider the mark of tribulation. Tribulation is the way of triumph. The valley-road opens into the highway. Tribulations' imprint is on all great things. Crowns are cast in crucibles. Chains of character that wind about the feet of God are forged in earthly flames. No man is great victor till he has trodden the winepress of sorrow. The "man of sorrows" said, "In the world ye shall have tribulation." But after this expression comes the assurance of promise, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

Hearing Conservation Team

Dr. M. L. Breitstein, Baltimore, otologist for the Health Department's hearing clinic is conducting an ear examination. Assisting (left to right) are Miss Anna Hardy, public health nurse in charge of the clinic; Mrs. Gladys Pitzer, public health nurse; Mrs. Dora Sweeney, Mt. Savage, who gives audiometer tests to all school children; and Mrs. Margaret E. Faulk, Frostburg, speech and hearing therapist for the Board of Education.

Girl Scouts Plan Annual Camps In July And August

Registrations Open For Summer Outings

Registrations are now being accepted for Girl Scout Camp and Girl Scout Day Camp, according to Miss Olive Hurlburt, local Girl Scout director.

Day Camp will be held at Constitution Park June 14 through June 18 and June 21 through June 25. Mrs. Elizabeth Williams will be camp director.

Established Camp will open July 11 and run through August 1. The three weeks of camping are divided into two sections, the first for one-week campers and the second period for two-week campers.

Miss Hurlburt points out that two weeks at camp offer more advantages than just a single week, because more opportunity is provided for participation in planning and for seeing the results of the planning. A better and more lasting adjustment to outdoor living is possible, she added.

Many girls have earned part of their $15 weekly camping fee by participating in the Girl Scout cookie sale, and early indications indicate that a record number will enroll.

The Established Camp is located at Green Ridge State Forest. Fathers and friends of scouting have been working on the camp and camp buildings over recent weekends. These "Do-Dads" as they are known, have repaired roofs, plumbing, walls and other parts of the permanent buildings and have generally cleaned up the camping area.

Tomorrow, Ellsworth Brewer, chairman of the "Do-Dads" will take a crew of men to the camp at 6 p. m. for a final bunch of clean-up chores. Brewer appeals for volunteers who will work, and suggests that they call him before tomorrow. Any father of a Girl Scout or any friend of scouting may lend a hand, he said.

Dr. Breitstein said the method calls for testing the hearing of all school children "whether or not they complain, because one doesn't know he is deaf until the condition is fairly well advanced."

Deafness, he added, "comes like a thief in the night. You don't know it is there until you wake up one morning and find that something is lost."

Detection of hearing difficulties is done through the use of the audiometer, operated by Mrs. Dora Sweeney, Mt. Savage, sight and hearing technician for the Board of Education.

Beginning with first graders, Mrs. Sweeney tests the hearing of school children each two years throughout their school career.

When the tests indicate hearing difficulties, as happens in about four per cent of the tests, parents are notified of the hearing loss and are advised to seek treatment from a private physician or at the Health Department hearing clinic.

The type of deafness is usually indicated by a study of the audiometer curve—a graphic representation of one's ability to hear sounds of varying pitch and intensity—and a medical examination.

All children referred to the hearing clinic by the County Health Department are given a complete ear, nose and throat examination to supplement the audiometer tests.

Whenever possible, medical treatment is undertaken in the clinic to correct the situation.

There are two kinds of deafness, perception—or nerve deafness, and conduction deafness.

The second, Dr. Breitstein said, is easier to take care of since perception deafness usually calls for education in addition to medical treatment.

Children suffering from deafness involving perception are referred to Mrs. Margaret Faulk, Frostburg speech and hearing therapist for the Board of Education.

Teachers help program. Teachers are kept informed of the sight and hearing conditions of their children so they can provide ideal seating arrangements.

The administration of the hearing clinic, considered one of the top clinics offered here, is in charge of the Allegany County Health Department.

Appointments are made by the Health Department, which schedules from 25 to 30 children for each clinic. Miss Anna Hardy is nurse in charge, assisted by Mrs. Gladys Pitzer, health nurse.

Dr. Breitstein completed the last of five two-day clinics of the current school term here Thursday.

Cooperative Program Fights Deafness In School Children

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Deafness, which comes "like a thief in the night," is being combated in Allegany County by a cooperative program dedicated to the early discovery and treatment of hearing difficulties in school children.

Joining in the program are the State Health Department, the Allegany County Health Department and the Board of Education of Allegany County.

Otologist for hearing conservation program is Dr. M. L. Breitstein, Baltimore, who has conducted hearing clinics here for the State Health Department since 1942.

His helpers include the staff of the Health Department and two specialists from the Board of Education staff.

Dr. Breitstein said the method calls for testing the hearing of all school children "whether or not they complain, because one doesn't know he is deaf until the condition is fairly well advanced."

Unidentified Man Found Hanging In W.Va. Woods

Mystery Surrounds Stranger's Death

Mystery shrouds the death of a clean-shaven, neatly dressed elderly man who was found hanging from a tree atop Location Mountain in the remote wilds of Tucker County, W. Va., yesterday afternoon.

The body of the unknown man was discovered at about 3 p. m. by a farmer who was walking through the rugged woodlands towards a roadway about a mile and half distant.

Fred Barr, who owns a farm near the summit of Location Mountain, told authorities he found the body as he was walking toward Location Road on his way to St. George, which is several miles north of Parsons, the county seat. Barr, who had walked some distance through the rough terrain, said he had sat down at the foot of the trunk of a huge tree which had fallen over. As he rested, he glanced in the air and just a few feet away from him saw the body of a man swaying back and forth from a large limb of the tree.

Dead 24 Hours

The farmer, unable to get in touch with anyone in the immediate area, walked into Parsons to report his finding to the authorities around 5:30 o'clock.

Justice of the Peace Stark Cobler, who acted as coroner, Trooper James Rightmire of the Thomas detachment of the West Virginia State Police and Dr. Guy H. Michael Sr., county health officer, accompanied Barr to the spot.

The officers had to walk more than a mile into the woodlands before reaching the fallen tree.

After cutting the body down Dr. Michael examined it and said the man had been dead for over 24 hours. Close investigation showed no identification of any kind on his person. Small change amounting to 33 cents and a skeleton key, were the only belongings found on the body.

Cobler said the man was about 70 years old, was clean-shaven, neatly dressed, with a carefully folded white handkerchief in his breast pocket. He was wearing brown trousers, blue shirt, suspenders and black shoes and socks. He apparently weighed about 145 to 150 pounds. He was bald, with graying hair around the sides of his head. His height was about 5 feet, 9 inches.

The acting coroner said the man apparently had walked into the wild region, had removed his coat and neatly folded it on a wooden slab at the base of the tree, had walked up the sloping trunk of the tree to the large, heavy limbs, tied a brand new half-inch rope around his neck and around one of the larger limbs, and stepped into space.

Foul Play Not Discounted

When Barr found him he was hanging about three feet off the ground, Cobler added.

A coroner's jury, composed of citizens from Parsons, returned a verdict of death by hanging. While no evidence of foul play was discovered, the jury would not discount homicide pending further investigation as to the man's identity and background.

Another hearing will be held today at the Greenleaf Funeral Home in Parsons where the body was taken last night. Authorities hope to find more about the man at that time.

State KC Meet Planned Here Next Year

OCEAN CITY, Md., May 23 (AP)—Stronger movie censorship laws and establishment of interdenominational chapels for Maryland mental institutions were urged today at a state convention of the Knights of Columbus.

The 425 delegates also reelected John P. Bauerschub of 4315 Locust Ave., Baltimore, as state deputy and voted to hold the 1955 convention in Cumberland. It will be the first time in eight years the meeting has been held outside Ocean City.

The movie censorship and interfaith chapel resolutions were among those adopted at the windup of a two-day session. Both are matters the organization has concerned itself with previously.

The K. of C. voted to do all it could to strengthen support of the board of censors "within limits of the recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions."

Other state officers elected today were: Frederick Gossman, 336 S. Taylor Ave., Baltimore, secretary; John Ward, Elkton, treasurer; Charles Fisher, Westminster, advocate; Austin Thomas, Frederick, warden.

Bucy of Chevy Chase, Thomas Carolan of Chevy Chase, Joseph Strehlen of Towson, Wilbert Logsdon of Mount Savage, John Costello of Baltimore and Richard Essler of Saint Michaels.

MRS. MINNIE WELSHANS

Local Resident Will Fly To Germany To Join Son

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

A thrill of her lifetime is in store for Mrs. Minnie Welshans, 28 Memorial Avenue, when she takes a trip by air across the Atlantic Ocean to visit her son now serving in Germany with the Army.

Several of her close relatives and friends bade Mrs. Welshans "bon voyage" Friday night and waved goodbye as No. 12 pulled out of Queen City station en route to New York City.

She reports to Fort Hamilton, N. Y., prior to boarding a plane for Frankfurt, Germany. Later she will travel to Garmisch, where her son, WO (jg) Albert Welshans is in charge of a number of Army-operated dining rooms.

Mrs. Welshans, who expects to remain in Germany for about a year, remarked she was "quite thrilled," had always wanted to take an airplane ride, but didn't expect to travel by air such a long distance.

She said she could not speak a word of German and her only hope was that someone who could speak English would be at the Frankfurt airport to make sure she got to Garmisch. This detail will certainly be taken care of by military authorities.

Since her husband, the late Samuel H. Welshans, died last year, she has been residing with her daughter, Mrs. William Hixenbaugh. Besides her own two children, Mrs. Welshans has two grandchildren.

Just before leaving for overseas, she remarked she would remain about a year, "unless I get homesick."

The Mayor and Council today will receive a Recreation Board recommendation that eight new playgrounds be hired for summer playground activities.

At its regular meeting Thursday night, the Board approved a recommendation that the eight be given a week's training and be put to work at city playgrounds.

Recommended for the positions are Robert Reiber, Donald Puhalla, Robert Brant, Joseph Gallen, Marshall Yankelevitz, George Wolfe, Jr. and Harry Hixenbaugh.

The board also adopted the monthly report of the City Recreation Department headed by Robert E. Pence which included activities from April 22, to May 20, the monthly budget for the same period, anticipated spending for the next month and activities contemplated in the future.

The report showed the recreation department spent $1,182.18 during the four-week period, including $882 for salaries. Total expenditures for the recreation department this fiscal year now amounts to $32,486.63 of a $40,000 budget.

Anticipated expenditures for next month is $7,513.37. The biggest jump in the budget is $1,300 for swimming pool personnel as the summer months find area swimming pools opening around Memorial Day. Other large items for the final month of the fiscal year include $1,107.37 for playground equipment, $900 for baseball and softball equipment and other items.

The board also adopted the same policy as it did last year on admissions to the Constitution Park pool and at Penn Avenue field, and adopted a plan to charge a rental fee for the use of Penn Avenue's enclosed field by organizations which will charge admissions for their own profit or for groups utilizing the field for their own gain.

Attending the meeting were Recreation Director Pence, Chairman of the Board Lewin C. Davis, Associate Judge George Henderson, Albert S. Payne and Mrs. Jack Yankelevitz, members.

The Flail Marks Of The Soul

By REV. H. E. HECKERT

The Apostle Paul gives this truth after he had been tested by enemies because of his religious convictions. As he closes this epistle he calls a halt to the controversy by informing his oppressors that from "Henceforth no one should trouble him, that he bore in his body the marks of the Lord Jesus. There is a mark that is born by the convict which is the mark of reproach. There is another mark which is that of recognition or the work of the love slave.

Let us consider the following marks which evidence themselves in our lives.

The mark of loneliness. There is no loneliness like the loneliness of love. It ever wakes to watch and wonder. The footsteps of the years make deep the tracks on the soul. Life and love cling forever to the skirts of God, and we may always touch His seamless robe. The soul is like the tendrils of a vine — they cling closer to the trellis as the summer wears away. The pain of parting has never found adequate voice. The soul feels what the lips have never spoken. Loneliness is a wind that blows over

Registrations Open For Summer Outings

Registrations are now being accepted for Girl Scout Camp and Girl Scout Day Camp, according to Miss Olive Hurlburt, local Girl Scout director.

Day Camp will be held at Constitution Park June 14 through June 18 and June 21 through June 25. Mrs. Elizabeth Williams will be camp director.

Established Camp will open July 11 and run through August 1. The three weeks of camping are divided into two sections, the first for one-week campers and the second period for two-week campers.

Miss Hurlburt points out that two weeks at camp offer more advantages than just a single week, because more opportunity is provided for participation in planning and for seeing the results of the planning. A better and more lasting adjustment to outdoor living is possible, she added.

Many girls have earned part of their $15 weekly camping fee by participating in the Girl Scout cookie sale, and early indications indicate that a record number will enroll.

The Established Camp is located at Green Ridge State Forest. Fathers and friends of scouting have been working on the camp and camp buildings over recent weekends. These "Do-Dads" as they are known, have repaired roofs, plumbing, walls and other parts of the permanent buildings and have generally cleaned up the camping area.

Tomorrow, Ellsworth Brewer, chairman of the "Do-Dads" will take a crew of men to the camp at 6 p. m. for a final bunch of clean-up chores. Brewer appeals for volunteers who will work, and suggests that they call him before tomorrow. Any father of a Girl Scout or any friend of scouting may lend a hand, he said.

Today's Sermonette

I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus. Gal. 6:17.

Today's sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at First Church of the Nazarene by the pastor, Rev. H. E. Heckert. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

our garden to waft the fragrance of the blooms within across the fence — the delight and joy of others. Which is emphasized in the words of Solomon, "Awake, O north wind; come thou south; blow upon my garden, that the spices (fragrance) thereof may flow out."

Then there is the mark of struggle which is God's plan for building the soul to large proportions. Somewhere along the way manhood must meet the wrestler. "Ease is the way to disease. Labor is the way of life." Struggle wins thrones, and struggle must hold them. Weary traveler, the Master went this way ere your feet pressed the hot sands. For His sacred feet consecrated the rugged road. Stuggle is seen in nature. The tiny seed is buried in the soil. To come to its place of floral ministry it must master the elements about it. No flight were possible to the bird did not the air resist the pressure of its pinions.

Lastly, let us consider the mark of tribulation. Tribulation is the way of triumph. The valley-road opens into the high-way. Tribulations' imprint is on all great things. Crowns are cast in crucibles. Chains of character that wind about the feet of God are forged in earthly flames. No man is greatest victor till he has trodden the winepress of sorrow. The "man of sorrows" said, "In the world ye shall have tribulation." But after this expression comes the assurance of promise, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

Cooperative Program Fights Deafness In School Children

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Deafness, which comes "like a thief in the night," is being combated in Allegany County by a cooperative program dedicated to the early discovery and treatment of hearing difficulties in school children.

Joining in the program are the State Health Department, the Allegany County Health Department and the Board of Education of Allegany County.

Otologist for hearing conservation program is Dr. M. L. Breitstein, Baltimore, who has conducted hearing clinics here for the State Health Department since 1942.

His helpers include the staff of the Health Department and two specialists from the Board of Education staff.

Dr. Breitstein said the method calls for testing the hearing of all school children "whether or not they complain, because one doesn't know he is deaf until the condition is fairly well advanced."

Get Regular Tests

Deafness, he added, "comes like a thief in the night. You don't know it is there until you wake up one morning and find that something is lost."

Detection of hearing difficulties is done through the use of the audiometer, operated by Mrs. Dora Sweeney, Mt. Savage, sight and hearing technician for the Board of Education.

Beginning with first graders, Mrs. Sweeney tests the hearing of school children each two years throughout their school career.

When the tests indicate hearing difficulties, as happens in about four per cent of the tests, parents are notified of the hearing loss and are advised to seek treatment from a private physician or at the Health Department hearing clinic.

Treatment Provided

The type of deafness is usually indicated by a study of the audiometer curve—a graphic representation of one's ability to hear sounds of varying pitch and intensity—and a medical examination.

All children referred to the hearing clinic by the County Health Department are given a complete ear, nose and throat examination to supplement the audiometer tests.

Whenever possible, medical treatment is undertaken in the clinic to correct the situation.

There are two kinds of deafness, perception—or nerve deafness, and conduction deafness.

The second, Dr. Breitstein said, is easier to take care of since perception deafness usually calls for education in addition to medical treatment.

Children suffering from deafness involving perception are referred to Mrs. Margaret Faulk, Frostburg speech and hearing therapist for the Board of Education.

Teachers Help Program

Teachers are kept informed of the sight and hearing conditions of their children so they can provide ideal seating arrangements.

The administration of the hearing clinic, considered one of the top clinics offered here, is in charge of the Allegany County Health Department.

Appointments are made by the Health Department, which schedules from 25 to 30 children for each clinic. Miss Anna Hardy is nurse in charge, assisted by Mrs. Gladys Pitzer, health nurse.

Dr. Breitstein completed the last of five two-day clinics of the current school term here Thursday.
